From Our Pastor!

In Search of the Perfect Christian How-to Book

It is enticing to think that one great technique, one pivotal event, a single epiphanous revelation will set life right and nothing will ever again be a problem. With such a revelation, our churches will fill to overflowing. Children will stop acting like we used to act. Money will flow into ministry. Sermons will inspire and folks will stay awake and alert for the entire service. But alas it just ain't so.

After reading way too many books about "how to do church", I'm discouraged with Christian book sellers and authors. No holy cure-all has come to light. Almost every book I've read for the last couple of decades has wrung out a single idea like a wet mop. More often than not, that idea could be explored in a few thousand words.

We read whole books that present a single action contained within semi-nary term-paper-sized, eight to ten double-spaced pages or approximately five times the size of this article.

Books have to be long to support the retail price. Who would pay for a few pages? Therefore, authors and publishers use finely-honed techniques to fatten a tome.

Margins can be artfully reduced. Tasteful illustrations contribute to memory prompts or just beautiful distractions. Smaller overall page size increases book width. Produce one decent idea, puffed up with large type, illustrations, numerous real or imagined stories to pound home the main point, and you also can publish a 175-225 page book that sells for way too much. Such is the current business of Christian authorship and book selling.

But there may be a single pearl of great price hidden away in the redundant pages of a book. Therefore, we continue to buy and read them.

Sometimes this pursuit of contemporary success can be an unnecessary distraction. I need to remember that the source material for instruction on preparing, sowing, and harvesting into the Kingdom of God and living an abundant joyful life is the Bible. When my friends or I write anything related to Christianity, the Bible should be our go to.

The great thing about Scripture is that it is not a single fluffed up idea, but a comprehensive guide for Christ's Body on Earth. From those sacred pages, we can find all we need to work out a successful and productive life and ministry that is pleasing to God.

Read as many current books as you please, but don't forget to spend time in the Scriptures. This is the source of instruction from God to us. The Bible is the best seller throughout history for a reason. As you read, pray for the Holy Spirit to help you understand what you are reading. If you are challenged by the truth of scripture, ask yourself why that is.

The Bible is really a library of 66 books in one volume, with countless "how to" directions that you will understand more with every read. It is the perfect instruction manual for life and life abundantly.

Seven Reasons to Worship Outside (Plus a Bonus) Compiled from the July 10th, 2022 Outside Worship Service

By Sheila Enstine

1. Worshipping outside is God's idea. When God finished creating, he pronounced "It is very Good!" over the entire cosmos (Gen. 1:31). God created everything for his own enjoyment and rejoices when he is glorified by creation. Speaking of Christ as God incarnate, Colossians 1:16 says, "...all things have been created through Him and for Him."
2. Worshipping God outside helps us reconnect to the earth from which we came and to our purpose as Eden's caregivers (see Genesis 2:4-17).
3. When worshipping outside, we experience the transcendent beauty of nature, which helps us perceive the beauty of God.
4. When worshipping outside, we join with all creation – animate and inanimate – in glorifying our Creator. Psalm 148 is one of many Psalms that describe creation worshipping God by doing his bidding.
5. When we worship God further out, in wilderness, we may hear a clearer call to ministry. Check out the ancestors of our faith. They were outside when called.
6. Worshipping outside is good for our health – body, mind, and soul.
7. Worshipping outside follows the example of our Savior. Jesus made himself totally dependent on the Father by experiencing birth, baptism, testing, ministry, crucifixion, and death outside of the physical, social, and religious norms of his day. Mary encountered the risen Christ outside in the garden, and two other disciples encountered him on a lonely road outside of Emmaus.

Bonus:

Worshipping outside leads us to fall more deeply in love with nature and, therefore, we fall more deeply in love with nature's God. When we fall more deeply in love with nature's God, we fall more deeply in love with those whom God loves, our fellow creatures and our fellow image-bearers. Go ye, therefore, outside and love.
